

Kingston Grandmother Connection collects the personal information you give us on the membership form (including your name, address, phone number and email). We may use this information to contact you and send you updates on our activities, as well as information relevant to the purposes of the Group.

We do not barter or sell any member information to third parties.

We collect only basic personal information and we do our best, within our limited means as a small not-for-profit, to manage digital information responsibly.

Any highly-sensitive payment information, such as credit card and debit card details, is managed securely.

DR May 2022